MYCELIUM INTELLIGENCE / BUSINESS PROCESS IMPROVEMENT / EDITION 2026-09

This is a short guide for introducing Justin's service to business owners around you. One page tells you who to approach, what to say, and what not to say.

Look for people who say things like this

- “I'm buried in daily admin work.” “We don't have enough people.”
- Lots of manual back-and-forth in Excel, Google Sheets, WhatsApp or Telegram
- Slow replies to enquiries and bookings — and customers slip away
- “I want to use AI, but I have no idea where to start.”

How to introduce us (use this as-is)

“You can't tell an AI to go earn money for me. But the wasted effort and the leaks in the way you already earn — AI can cut a lot of that.

There's someone who diagnoses where your company loses time and money, then builds a system shaped around that company. Ex-Apple, and one single point of contact from diagnosis through to maintenance.

There's a free 30-minute consultation. Want to have one conversation?”

How to answer the usual reactions

What they say	What you answer
“Is it true you can earn money automatically with AI?”	Ask yourself whether you'd pay to read an article that AI wrote. AI pays off when it removes effort from work that already makes money.
They're already recommending an off-the-shelf SaaS tool	Our clients are the companies that say “we bought the tool and nobody used it” or “our operations are too specific for it.” With both options on the table, they get to pick the one that fits.

A good question to ask

“Which part of your work eats the most time as manual labour right now?”

→ If they're interested, pass on Justin's contact details, or open a group chat with the three of you.

Please don't say these

Don't say	Why
A promised price (“he can do it for $700”)	Nobody knows before the diagnosis. Stay at “the menu starts around this figure.”
“He can build anything”	If no development is needed, Justin will say so.
Work we decline	Mass automated messaging and spam, collecting personal data without consent, anything connected to fraud.

Referral fees

How you're involved	Fee
Introduction only (you connect the client and Justin)	10% of the signed amount
Introduction plus joining the meetings through to signature	20% of the signed amount
If that client also signs a monthly maintenance plan	10% of the monthly fee, for 12 months

- The base is diagnosis + implementation combined. A free consultation that goes no further doesn't qualify.
- Payment follows the client's payment to Justin.

Worked example

Diagnosis Light $1,300 + Implementation M $5,900, minus half the diagnosis fee credited back ($650) = $6,550 signed

→ Introduction only $655 / attending through to signature $1,310

If they also sign Maintenance Standard ($600/month), that's $60 × 12 months

A line you can use right now (case-study plan)

“There's a package that covers team information-sharing and AI adoption together, and the first three companies willing to be featured as a case study get $600 off (up to 5 people, $3,000). You can choose whether your company name is published.”

Always give the reason for the discount (they help us with a case study). We never say “today only” or “almost gone.”
